Take the Alaska Expedition from Dubanok heading to Roswell after doing scale in the Austin ROT

JUNE 14, 2016 - 03:31 PM

Dubanok Onoff, star of the Alaska Expedition, motorcycle Mexico City to Alaska and back to the capital of the Aztec country, heading to Roswell, New Mexico, after passing through the state of Texas following the route of the Custom Rock Rally.

It can be said that the Custom Rock Rally comprises making 1000 miles in less than 24 hours from City from Mexico to Austin Texas, where the Colombian-Mexican biker participated in the biggest party of the state motorcycle of Texas and one of the majors of the United States: the Republic of Texas Biker Rally.

The Rally of Texas as it is known in Austin, is an impeccably organized event that frames the biggest motorcycle party in that state, in which 5000 motorcycles participate, and which is celebrated under strict security measures, so much that they allow to drink and to handle the bikes in a controlled space.

The event takes place at the Travis County Exposition Center in Austin, and is held annually by four days beginning always a Thursday of the month of June.

The event hosts motorcycle fans and motorcycle shows and comedians, so it summons motorcycling clubs, rock bands, acrobats, sellers and distributors of equipment for bikes and of course the parade takes place on Friday night.

It may be said that this event has been certified by the Guinness Book of World Records as the parade longest motorcycle in the world.

Dubanok says that the organizers of this event have a clear interest in promoting safety in motorcycling and therefore provide accident statistics and other information related to road safety on motorcycles to create awareness among participants.

This is more relevant in this North American state, which places great emphasis on the personal conscience on this problem, due to the freedom of its laws that do not require the compulsory use of helmets or gloves on motorcyclists.

"It is a total carnival of motorcycles, and the atmosphere is very pleasant; It is important to mention that with the police and organizers of the event, told me that there are no incidents to be regretted, since the respect among the people involved is the basis of the event," says Dubanok After this stop, Dubanok is on its way to Alaska and the next stop is the legendary Roswell in the state of New Mexico, known world-wide for its reputation of having been the supposed place where an alien ship crashed on 10 July 1947.
